KANSAS CITY CHIEFS PRESIDENT

LAMAR HUNT

Lamar Hunt is a man on the move. He is a man who thrives on challenges, a man who has become one of the greatest pioneers in the history of pro sports.

As a young man, Hunt dreamed of owning a professional football team. When he was unable to obtain a franchise in the existing league, he set out to form a new circuit. He found other men who wanted to join him in this venture and in 1959, at the age of 26, he formed the American Football League, and in 1960, served as the league's first president.

Hunt was happy with the progress of his brainchild but he was far from content. He wanted to see the AFL play the NFL in a World Championship game. This was his goal.

In March of 1966, Hunt and Tex Schramm, the President and General Manager of the Dallas Cowboys, began a series of talks which eventually led to the agreement between the NFL and the AFL for an expanded pro football league. One of the main points of the agreement was that the two leagues would meet in a Championship game at the end of the 1966 season. Hunt still had another goal. He wanted to see his Chiefs play in that first World Championship game.

Hunt got his wish when on January 15, 1966, the Kansas City Chiefs met the Green Bay Packers in the Los Angeles Coliseum for the Championship of the World.

The highlight of Hunt's career came January 11, 1970 in New Orleans, when his Chiefs representing the league he founded, defeated the Minnesota Vikings 23-7 in the last AFL-NFL Championship Game.

The AFL played its first season in 1960. Cries of "It won't last a year" . . . "Just a young man's folly," . . . "Where will they get the players," were heard throughout the sports world. Now, 11 years later, as part of pro football's merger, the American Football League becomes the American Football Conference and absorbs three teams from the established National Football League, thanks in no small measure to the efforts of that young pioneer from Texas, Lamar Hunt. Appropriately, Hunt was elected the first President of the American Football Conference last March at the owners' meetings in Hawaii.

Five years ago, Hunt broadened his sports holdings by purchasing 50% interest in the Dallas Spurs Baseball Team of the Texas League. In 1966 he became a stockholder in the Chicago Bulls Basketball Team of the National Basketball Association. In '67 he became Vice President of World Championship Tennis, Inc. In addition to these holdings he is the major stockholder in the Dallas Tornados Soccer Club of the North American Soccer League. Also, two of Kansas City's most prominent companies, Interstate Securities and Traders National Bank, have named Hunt to their Board of Directors. In June of 1968 he was elected to membership on the Board of Trustees of the Professional Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

Hunt is a graduate of Southern Methodist University and was a member of that school's football squad.

Hunt and his wife, Norma, and son, Clark, make their home in Dallas.

CHIEFS HEAD COACH

HENRY "HANK" STRAM

Henry "Hank" Stram is the Chiefs Head Coach and has been since Lamar Hunt founded the American Football League, and named his own team the Dallas Texans. The inventive and dynamic Stram was the only coach to lead a team through the A.F.L.'s ten-year history.

Stram is a native of Gary, Indiana. He was an All-State halfback at Lew Wallace High, and entered Purdue University on a football scholarship in 1941.

After his first varsity season, Stram was invited to play in the College All-Star Game. However, he had enlisted in the Army reserve in the spring of 1943, and was called to active duty two months before the game was to be played. He remained in the service for three years, returning to Purdue in 1946. In 1948 he was graduated with a B.S. in Physical Education.

Stram won seven monograms at Purdue, four in baseball and three in football. In his senior year he received the highly prized Big Ten Medal which is awarded to the conference athlete who best combines athletics with scholarship.

Immediately upon graduation, Stram joined Purdue's coaching staff and served the next eight years as backfield coach under head coach Stu Holcomb. In 1956, Stram coached at Southern Methodist University, and then spent the following [illegible] seasons at Notre Dame under Terry Brennan. A one-year [illegible] at the University of Miami (Fla.) preceded Hunt's nam[illegible]nim to head his new A.F.L. club.

During his 12 years in the college ranks, Stram gained the reputation as one of the country's most imaginative teachers of offensive football. He is credited with the development of four All-American quarterbacks . . . Dale Samuels and Len Dawson of Purdue, George Izo of Notre Dame and Fran Curci of Miami.

Stram has enlarged upon his reputation as a top offensive tactician and innovator since he joined the pro ranks. His use of the moving quarterback pocket, in which his quarterback seldom sets up to pass in the same spot two plays running, is one of the most talked about developments in pro football. In 1967 he added the Tight-End I to the Chiefs offensive arsenal. This formation has the tight-end shift out of the backfield to either side of the line, thus creating indecision on the opposing team's defensive backfield. The fact that these procedures are effective is borne out by our statistics. The Chiefs quarterback, Len Dawson, has thrown more TD passes than any other quarterback in pro football over the last eight seasons. The Chiefs annually finish atop or among the A.F.L. leaders in scoring, passing offense, rushing offense and total offense.

Stram made his mark as a defensive strategist in 1962 when he successfully employed his now famous "stack" defense. In the "stack" Kansas City can present the appearance of being in anything from a three-man to a seven-man front. The various alignments that the "stack" makes possible create a different look to the opposing quarterback, change blocking rules and open the door for a variety of defensive stunts. Several professional clubs have added the "stack" to their defensive repertoire as a result of Stram's success in harassing rival offenses.

As coach of the Chiefs, the popular and highly respected Stram has compiled a record of 87 wins, 48 losses, and five ties.

In 1966 the Chiefs won their second league championship, feating the Buffalo Bills 31 to 7 to earn a berth opposite the Green Bay Packers in the First World Championship of Pro Football.

Stram received a host of national awards following the 1966 season. He was named the A.F.L.'s Coach of the Year by the Associated Press, the Washington Touchdown Club, and Dapper Dan Club of Pittsburgh, and the Helms Athletics Association. The Rockne Club honored him as Pro Football's Coach of the Year.

Locally, the Kansas City Advertising and Sales Executives Club proclaimed him Kansas City's Salesman of the Year and the Kansas City Restaurant Association and the Blue Valley Industrial Group designated him Kansas City's Man of the Year.

1966 was the second year that a Stram-led team has captured an A.F.L. title. In 1962, when the Chiefs were the Dallas Texans, they won their first A.F.L. championship with a thrilling 20 to 17 six-quarter victory over the Houston Oilers in the longest football game ever played. After the '62 season Stram was named "Pro Football Coach of the Year."

In 1967, he was given the honor of coaching the South All-Stars in the Senior Bowl game in Mobile, Alabama. His team was victorious, winning 34 to 21 over the North.

After the Chiefs posted a 12-2 record in 1968, Stram was voted the A.F.L.'s Coach of the Year by the Associated Press, United Press International, Pro Football Weekly, the Pittsburgh Dapper Dan Club, and the Washington Touchdown Club. The Chiefs' 13-10 pre-season victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in 1968 made Stram the first A.F.L. coach to defeat N.F.L. opposition three times, and also the first coach in A.F.L. history to win 100 games.

Stram began 1969 on a winning note by guiding the Western Division All Stars to a 38-25 victory over the Eastern Stars. Stram's team trailed 19-3 in the first half, but scored points after intermission to win the contest.

With the upcoming merger of professional football's two leagues, 1969 was the final season of play for the A.F.L. as such. Stram guided the Chiefs to an 11 to 3 season to become the winningest coach in the league's 10-year history.

The Chiefs went on to defeat Oakland 17 to 7 for the A.F.L. title. Stram had become the only coach to win three League championships and the Chiefs were the only team to represent the A.F.L. in two Super Bowls. The highlight of Stram's illustrious career came on January 11, 1970, when Kansas City defeated Minnesota, 23 to 7, for the World Championship of Professional Football. Stram was named the A.F.L.'s Coach of the Year by the Washington Touchdown Club and the Dapper Dan Club of Pittsburgh. He was also voted Coach of the Year by 101 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the country, who comprised the selection committee for Kansas City's first salute to professional football. The New York Chapter of the Pro Football Writers Association named Stram their Super Man of the Year.

Stram is in great demand as a speaker, and travels countless miles during the off season spreading the gospel of professional football. His hobbies include golf and handball, both of which he plays exceptionally well.

The close-knit Stram family consists of: vivacious Phyllis, mother of the six Stram children: Hank, Jr., 15; Dale, 14; Stu, 12; Julie, 10; Gary, 8, and Mary Nell, 7. Their home is in Prairie Village, Kansas.

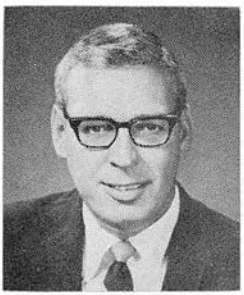
Executive Vice President and General Manager



JACK STEADMAN

The driving force behind the Kansas City Chiefs Administrative Staff is Executive Vice President and General Manager Jack Steadman. Steadman is a graduate of Southern Methodist University and has been the Chiefs administrative head since November 1, 1960.

Steadman is a man with tremendous drive and enthusiasm. He thrives on work, is efficient, and a top organizer. These qualities have earned him the reputation as one of pro football's leading administrators. When Steadman was promoted to the position of Executive Vice President in 1966, Owner Lamar Hunt stated, "Jack has done an outstanding job in handling the Chiefs organization. I consider him to be the most complete and competent general manager in pro football."

Since moving to Kansas City in 1963 the Chiefs under Steadman's leadership have set out to become an integral part of the Kansas City scene. As part of this program of community relations, the Chiefs Club was established to help promote and develop the Kansas City Chiefs as a community asset. This club has grown into one of the strongest, most active, and most effective booster organizations in the country.

Steadman is constantly searching for ways to improve the Chiefs operation and provide better service for the fans. The Chiefs were the first pro football club to adopt a telephone reservation system for tickets. In 1966 the Chiefs Express Bus Service was put into operation to alleviate the traffic congestion Municipal Stadium and in 1967 the Chiefs ticket records e put on a newly developed IBM Data Processing System.

One of Steadman's greatest assets is his ability to spot a good idea and put it into operation. A good example of this was the Chiefs "Join the Wolfpack" Season Ticket Campaign. The success of this promotion is borne out by statistics.

The Chiefs have set a Western Division Attendance Record in three of the past four years, and cut off the season tickets for 1969 at 42,000. The past three seasons Kansas City fans filled Municipal Stadium to 99 percent capacity. The 42,000 season tickets sold for 1970 is more than 86 percent of capacity.

Capitalizing on this demand for seats and the Chiefs Super Bowl victory, Steadman placed on sale season tickets for the 1971 season when the Chiefs will be in their new 75,000-seat stadium. The demand exceeded anyone's beliefs as the Chiefs sold 70,000 season tickets, which represents the most season tickets sold in professional sports history.

Despite his demanding work schedule, Steadman remains active in civic affairs. He is President of the Kansas City-Jackson County Unit of the American Cancer Society, is also on the Board of Directors of the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, is a member of the Civic Council, and on the Board of Directors of the American Royal Association and Raytown Bank.

He and his wife Martha, and their three children: 19-year-old Tom; Barbara, age 18, and 14-year-old Don, live in suburban Johnson County.

MUNICIPAL STADIUM

Home base for the Kansas City Chiefs is the Midwest metropolis' beautiful Municipal Stadium. The Stadium, located at 22nd and Brooklyn in almost the heart of Kansas City, has a capacity of 49,002 for football. Nearly 27,000 of the seats in the Municipal Stadium are yard-line seats, making it one of the most attractive stadiums anywhere to watch football. The field runs east and west, with permanent stands on the south side, east and west end and 11,015 temporary bleachers along the north sideline. The stadium is owned by the City of Kansas City and leased to the Chiefs.

THE CHIEFS HEADQUARTERS

The entire Kansas City Chiefs operation is housed under one ultra-modern roof in the beautiful Swope Park area of Kansas City, Mo. The administrative offices and ticket office are located in one wing while the coaches' offices, team meeting room, training room and equipment area occupy the other. A concrete wall encloses the excellent practice field adjacent to the building, and another complete field is also at the disposal of the Chiefs.

This impressive set-up, constructed in 1963 especially for the Chiefs by the city, has been described by many as the most modern and workable team headquarters in all of pro football.

Located in southeastern Kansas City, the fieldhouse is some eight miles from downtown K. C.

THE CHIEFS MASCOT, WARPAINT!

The 1970 Kansas City Chiefs welcome back Warpaint, their official mascot and a seven-year veteran of the world of professional football.

The17-year-old spotted gelding and his rider, Bob Johnson, gallop around the warning track of Municipal Stadium each time the Chiefs score.

Warpaint is an authentic Indian pony, owned at one time by the Pawnee Indians. He was purchased by Benjamin Stables in Kansas City specifically for use as the Chiefs' mascot. Johnson is associated with Benjamin Stables, and is a "natural" in his role as Warpaint's rider as he is part Osage Indian.

THE CHIEFS CLUB

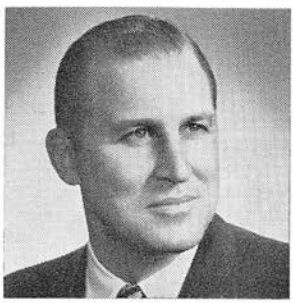
Official Booster Organization for the Chiefs



RAY EVANS
Chiefs Club President

The Chiefs Club was formed by a group of civic-minded citizens with one goal in mind . . . making Kansas City the strongest franchise in professional football. Its membership currently is approaching the 1,400 mark.

Heading the activities of the Chiefs Club is president Ray Evans. Evans is a former All American at the University of Kansas and a member of the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. He led the ticket drive that was responsible for obtaining the Chiefs for Kansas City in 1963.

The Chiefs Club's activities during the regular football season center around weekly luncheons held each Thursday at the Advertising and Sales Executives Club, Thursday evening dinner meetings at the U-Smile Stadium Inn, and at least two trips to away games. During the off season, the Club devotes the majority of its time to the sale of season tickets. It was largely through the efforts of this group that the Chiefs season ticket [illegible]e increased from 9,500 in 1965 to 33,118 in 1967 and over [illegible]00 in 1969.

To date 396 members of the Chiefs Club have become Red Coaters, having sold 100 or more season tickets and wear the official red blazer with special pocket emblem signifying their achievement. During the season the Red Coaters participate in pre-game festivities at every home game, and of course the Chiefs Club luncheons and dinners. John McDermott was recently elected President of the Red Coaters. Assisting him are First Vice President Jim Lanning; Second Vice President H. Don Krouse; Treasurer Jim Pendleton; and Secretary Mrs. Ruth Dahnke. Other directors include Ken Young, Past President; Leon Brownfield, Bill Grigsby, Joe Wolfe and Leo Eisenberg.

Assisting President Ray Evans in operation of the Chiefs Club are Executive Vice Presidents, Jack Wheeler and Bill Ireland; Treasurer, Max Straube, and Secretary, Bruce Rice. Each Executive Vice President will direct the activities of three Vice Presidents and the committees, who are responsible for definite areas of booster activities. Under Wheeler will be charter trips, G. Findlay Reed; membership, Sam Gould; and ticket sales, Bob Dahnke. Ireland will have under his jurisdiction special events, Max Norman; luncheon, Dave Smith; and publicity, Dick Dexter. All of the above plus Ken Young, George R. "Dick" Docking, Truman Sloan, Chuck Richardson and John McDermott make up the Club's Board of Directors.

1969 CHIEFS CHEERLEADERS

The 1969 Kansas City Chiefs Cheerleading corps is made up of twenty-five girls representing twenty-two high schools and colleges throughout the immediate Kansas City area. This volunteer group of young women was selected May 9 from eighty-five girls who tried out in open competition. They range in age from 15 to 20 years old.

The Chiefs Cheerleaders are one of the most active c leading squads in professional football. In addition to practice twice a week during the summer, they appear at all home games, and make many public appearances in behalf of the Chiefs organization. The 1970 cheerleaders are directed by Miss Margaret Sprague of the Chiefs staff.

CHIEFETTES PRECISION DRILL TEAM

The Chiefettes, the Chiefs all girl precision drill team, made its first appearance in the pre-season of 1967 and was an instant success with Chiefs fans. Wearing colorful costumes of red and white, accented with sequins and topped with a single feather, these young women add color and beauty to the Chiefs already exciting pre-game and halftime shows.

Formation of the Chiefettes into a precision performing group is the result of many hours of hard work on the part of the girls and their sponsors, Director Johnny Miller and Choreographer Shirley Marley.

From 200 girls who participated in the 1970 tryouts held April 12, seventy-four were chosen to become Chiefettes. The Chiefettes are comprised of girls whose average age is 15 years and who come from every corner of Kansas City. Twenty-nine high schools are represented in this group.

THE CHIEFS "ZING BAND"

The Chiefs Music Man, in fact, Mr. Music of Kansas City, is the popular Tony DiPardo. At each home game, Tony and his Zing Band liven up the day's football spectacular with their catchy and entertaining renditions of the numbers which become so much a part of football.

Tony was born in St. Louis, and joined the Joe Reichman Orchestra when he was very young. In 1939, he formed his own band and soon began playing at leading hotels and clubs throughout the country. In 1950, his group came for a limi engagement at one of Kansas City's leading nightclubs, that "limited" stand continued for eight years.

He is much in demand by private groups, now, playing dances and other events with amazing frequency—and you'll see him and his 15-piece band on the bandstand each time the Chiefs take the field in Municipal Stadium.

CHIEFS PRE-GAME AND HALFTIME ENTERTAINMENT 1969

1962 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
KANSAS CITY vs. HOUSTON
Football's Longest Day
December 23, 1962

Football historians will be reliving "the day the Dallas Texans won the American Football League championship" as long as there are football historians. Seldom, if ever, has there been a contest with such drama and excitement as the one played that day in Houston, December 23, 1962.

The Texans, champions of the American Football League's West, got away fast and at halftime held a 17-0 lead over Houston's defending champions. Abner Haynes, the No. 1 touchdown-maker in football in 1962, got both TDs, one on a pass from Len Dawson, the other on a short burst. Tommy Brooker added a field goal.

Houston stormed back in the second half and completely controlled the football. When the regulation 60 minutes were up the score was tied. This time, 17-17.

The two teams then went into sudden-death overtime. The first team to score would be the American Football League champions. The Chiefs won the toss and Hank Stram chose to kick off, figuring his thoroughly fired-up defense could hold the Oilers and his offense would have field position when it got the ball. Inadvertently, Captain Abner Haynes also gave up the wind, a minor factor but nevertheless a factor.

The two great football teams battled back and forth in the extra period with neither offering too serious a threat. Then, as the "fifth" quarter was about to come to a close, the Texans got a break. Bill Hull, a defensive end, intercepted a George Blanda pass and gave the Western Division champs an opportunity at midfield. A Len Dawson pass to Jack Spikes for 10 yards; a 19-yard run by Spikes, the game's outstanding player, and the Texans were in field goal position. Tommy Brooker's kick was good as the clock read 2:54 gone in the sixth period. Seventy-seven minutes and 54 seconds after game had begun, the Dallas Texans became American Football League champions in 1962.

KANSAS CITY vs. BUFFALO
January 1, 1967

A frigid New Year's day in Buffalo found the Chiefs slight favorites to capture their second A.F.L. Championship in five years. Buffalo had won the League title the past two years and was determined to repeat. The Chiefs and Bills had met twice during the regular season. Kansas City won the first game 42 to 20. Buffalo captured the second, 29 to 14.

The Chiefs capitalized on the Bills' fumble of the opening kickoff as Jerrel Wilson recovered on the Buffalo 31. Three plays later Len Dawson hit Fred Arbanas for a touchdown the Chiefs led 7 to 0. Buffalo came back to tie the score Jack Kemp to Elbert Dubenion pass that covered 69 yards.

The Chiefs regained the lead when Dawson passed to Otis Taylor and the fleet flanker bulled his way to a touchdown. With two minutes to go in the first half Buffalo had a second down on the Chiefs 10. Johnny Robinson then intercepted a Kemp pass on the goal line and returned it 72 yards to the Bills 18, setting up a field goal by Mike Mercer that gave the Chiefs a 17 to 7 lead at halftime.

Early in the final period Dawson passed to Burford for a first down on the Buffalo four. Mike Garrett applied the knockout blow when, after three smashes at the goal, he bolted over from one yard out to give the Chiefs a commanding 24 to 7 lead. Garrett added the game's final touchdown shortly thereafter on a spectacular exhibition of broken field running, reversing his field to score from the Bills 18.

The final score was Kansas City 31, Buffalo 7 and the Chiefs were Super Bowl bound.

FIRST WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
KANSAS CITY vs. GREEN BAY
January 15, 1967

History was made at the Los Angeles Coliseum on Jan 15, the Kansas City Chiefs versus the Green Bay Packers the Championship of the World. The Packers, rated by many experts the greatest team in the history of pro football, were heavy favorites. The Chiefs showed that they came to play on the opening series of downs when first Buck Buchanan, then Bobby Bell, and Jerry Mays dropped Bart Starr for consecutive losses.

Green Bay scored first, midway in the opening quarter, when Max McGee made an unbelieveable one-handed catch of a Starr pass. The Chiefs, behind the brilliant play calling and passing of Len Dawson, tied the score early in the second period with Dawson passing to Curtis McClinton for the touchdown.

Green Bay went ahead 14 to 7 on a Jim Taylor touchdown but the Chiefs, with Dawson connecting to Fred Arbanas, Otis Taylor and Chris Burford moved into Green Bay territory. With time running out, Mike Mercer kicked a 31 yard field goal and the score at halftime was Kansas City 10, Green Bay 14.

The Chiefs had momentum on their side when the second half started and promptly moved to a first down. With third and five on their own 49, Dawson threw a flat pass to Arbanas. Packer safety, Willie Wood, intercepted and returned to the Chiefs five. Elijah Pitts drove over left tackle on the next play for the touchdown to give the Packers a 21 to 10 lead.

The tide of battle turned after Pitts' touchdown. Now the Packers had the momentum. With Starr hitting his receivers on key third down situations, the Packers marched to two more touchdowns to make the final score: Kansas City 10, Green Bay 35.

KANSAS CITY vs. OAKLAND
JANUARY 4, 1970

January 4, 1970—a date that will go down in professional football history. For on that day the American Football League staged its final Championship Game. Ironically, the Kansas City Chiefs were facing their Western Division rivals, the Oakland Raiders. A Kansas City victory over the New York Jets in the AFL's one-year divisional playoff system had given the Chiefs a shot at an unprecedented third league title. The Raiders had narrowly defeated the Chiefs in two regular season games and were rated four-point favorites for this historic showdown.

Oakland scored the game's first touchdown late in the opening quarter on a three-yard sweep by runningback Charley Smith. A 24-yard pass from Daryle Lamonica to Warren Wells had set up the scoring play.

The Chiefs mounted a drive in the closing minutes of the first half when Len Dawson hit Otis Taylor on a 14-yard pass to the Kansas City 40. Four plays later Dawson connected with Frank Pitts for 41 yards to the Raiders one-yard line. Runningback Wendell Hayes plunged over for the touchdown and the first half came to a close with the teams deadlocked 7-7.

The Raiders had two chances to break the tie in the third quarter. Both times a George Blanda field goal went astray. Midway through the third period, the Chiefs had the ball on their own two. Taylor got Kansas City out of the hole with a fantastic over the shoulder grab of a Dawson pass for 35 yards. Robert Holmes added 23 yards to the scoring drive by taking a flare pass to the Raiders 34. Five plays later Holmes swept left end from the five for the go ahead touchdown. Jan Stenerud's conversion gave the Chiefs a 14-7 lead.

Then Coach Hank Stram called on the defense. Throughout the year the defense was a key factor in the Chiefs success when the offense was having its problems. Again the defense responded to the challenge.

Led by end Aaron Brown, the Chiefs harassed Lamonica all afternoon. Two times in the fourth quarter the Chiefs dropped the Oakland signal caller as he was attempting to pass.

Three times in the final quarter a weird turnover gave Oakland the ball in Kansas City territory. Each time a Chiefs interception stopped the scoring threat.

The final turnover occurred when cornerback Emmitt Thomas grabbed his second interception of the day and raced 62 yards to the Oakland 18. There, Stenerud's 22-yard field goal gave the Chiefs a 17-7 victory, their third AFL Championship and a trip to New Orleans for their second Super Bowl encounter.

FOURTH WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

KANSAS CITY vs. MINNESOTA

JANUARY 11, 1970

The Kansas City Chiefs had fought their way into another historic game January 11, 1970 when they faced the National Football League Champion Minnesota Vikings in the last Super Bowl between the two leagues. The Vikings had outfought and outclassed their NFL rivals in posting a 12-2 record. Their 12 consecutive victories represented pro football's longest winning streak in 1969.

Under Hank Stram's leadership the Chiefs had closed out their decade in the American Football League as its winningest team. They were the only team to win three AFL titles and the only team to represent the league in two Super Bowls. After an 11-3 season, the Chiefs defeated the World Champion New York Jets and the Western Division Champion Oakland Raiders to get to New Orleans.

The Chiefs grabbed an early lead, midway through the first quarter, when Jan Stenerud booted a Super Bowl record 48-yard field goal. Stenerud kicked two more three-pointers in the second quarter to give the Chiefs a 9-0 lead.

Kansas City got the first break in the game when Minnesota's Charlie West fumbled a kickoff and Remi Prudhomme recovered on the Viking 19. After an eight-yard loss, Len Dawson sent Wendell Hayes up the middle for 13 yards on a draw play. A ten-yard pass to Otis Taylor gave the Chiefs a first down at the four. Three plays later Mike Garrett went off-tackle through a devastating hole in the Minnesota line to score the game's first touchdown. The defense shut the Vikings out the rest of the quarter and Kansas City had a 16-0 half-time lead.

Minnesota mounted a third quarter scoring march to cut the Chiefs lead to 16-7. Runningback Dave Osborn capped the 69-yard drive by hurdling four yards into the end zone.

However, any hopes of a Vikings comeback were thrust [illegible] oblivion when Dawson hit Otis Taylor on a short hitch, and [illegible] Chiefs wide receiver broke two tackles en route to a 46-yard touchdown. The Chiefs went into the final quarter with a 16-point lead. Again, as was the case so often in 1969, the defense took over.

The Vikings had the ball three times in the fourth quarter, and three times the Chiefs regained possession with an interception. Middle linebacker Willie Lanier picked off a Joe Kapp pass at the Kansas City 34. Later, Johnny Robinson, playing with three broken ribs, grabbed another errant throw. In the closing minutes of the game, cornerback Emmitt Thomas, the AFL's interception leader, stole another Minnesota aerial. The Chiefs ran out the clock to capture the AFL's second Super Bowl victory with a 23-7 win over the Vikings.

The American Football League's ten-year history is over. 1970 ushers in a new decade in the era of professional football, a decade that begins with the Kansas City Chiefs as World Champions.

The Mack Lee Hill Award

MACK LEE HILL

Cornerback Jim Marsalis was voted winner of the Mack Lee Hill Award, given annually to the rookie who, as the inscription on the trophy reads, "Best exemplifies the spirit of the late Mack Lee Hill, 'the man with the giant heart and quiet way.'" The award is named for the Chiefs star runningback whose sudden death while undergoing surgery in 1965 shocked the sports world.

In making the award presentation, Captain Jerry Mays said, "We are again very fortunate to have a rookie on our club who has exemplified the attitude and spirit of Mack Lee Hill. Jim Marsalis has done an outstanding job for us playing one of the toughest positions on the field. His concentration and dedication on and off the field have been an example for all of us."

Marsalis was the Chiefs number one draft choice from Tennessee State, which marked the first time that Coach Hank Stram has drafted a cornerback in the first round.

"Jim fulfilled our every expectation as a number one draft choice," said Stram. "He has all the natural attributes you look for in a defensive back. However, the thing that makes him such a great football player is that, along with his natural talent, Jim expresses a totally unselfish, dedicated attitude and a burning desire to contribute to this team's success."

Marsalis was the only rookie picked by the other league coaches as a member of the AFL's Western Division All-Star Team which defeated the Eastern All-Stars in Houston, January 17.

Marsalis is the fourth selected to receive the award. Runningback Mike Garrett was the first in 1966, place kicker Jan Stenerud was picked in 1967, and the 1968 recipient was runningback Robert Holmes.
